

An announcement from the Multiple research group at the Centre for Fine Print Research:

Save the date: Thursday 30th June 2016!

Dr Tim Mosely - free public lecture on Australian artists' books and printmaking
Thursday 30th June 2016 at 3pm in 4B17

The Multiple research group at the Centre for Fine Print Research is delighted to announce that Dr Tim Mosely of Queensland College of Art will give a free public lecture on artists' books and printmaking to launch an exhibition of Australian artists' books and prints from the Griffith Centre for Creative Arts Research, here at Bower Ashton on Thursday 30th June 2016 at 3pm in 4B17.

Tim hosted MA Printmaking student Stephanie Turnbull's visit to Queensland College of Art last summer where she collaborated with him on printmaking and he taught her pulp-printing. We have collaborated with Tim on artists' books and printmaking projects in Australia and the UK, and this will be a great opportunity to find out more about Australian printmaking. Some info about Tim here: <http://www.gccar.com.au/membersfulltim-mosely>

The talk will be followed by a drinks reception / private view of the exhibition of artists' books and prints in C-block print studios. All welcome. RSVP to Sarah to reserve your place please as we have a maximum capacity of 50 and places are going fast. Sarah.Bodman@uwe.ac.uk

Why not make a day of it? Tim is bringing QCA PhD student Blair Coffey with him, who will give a talk about his printmaking practice/PhD project at 11am the same day, all of you are welcome. You could have a day out here, get lunch in the canteen or Ashton Court and go to both talks and the reception...

