Artists' Books, 2011-2018

Read To Me, July 2018. 'Read to me' is an experiment made by the artist in collaboration with a psychometric reader, to transmit the emotional content of selected narratives through a series of physical objects. Ten objects were selected to read chapters of novels, or short stories to. They were then posted to the reader who relayed their messages back to the artist. Produced at the London Centre for Book Arts, 2018. Edition of 100, 20 pages, 105 x 148 mm, four-colour risograph print with Esther McManus (Cyan, Florescent Pink, Yellow, Black) on Redeem 130gsm recycled paper, envelope with dark pink metallic foiled title in 16pt York type.

Red Blue Shades, Sarah Bodman & Chrystal Cherniwchan. A collaborative artist's book inspired by the short story 'Watching God' in the collection Three Moments of an Explosion by China Miéville. For 2018, the World Book Night United Artists issued an invitation to read and respond to this text. We exhibited the artworks in an exhibition Found on the Isthmus at UWE, Bristol. For the exhibition, we bought frames from second-hand shops, removing the contents to replace with the new artwork displays. From the removed artworks, we photographed sections and responded to the elements of nature, the seasons, movement, reading, the passing of time and the slippage of words. Edition of 2 x A5 books for The Seasons, 2018.

Their Eyes Were Watching God, April 2018. A collaboration with 50 national and international artists for World Book Night 2018. A paperback 'ur-text' response to the short story 'Watching God' in the collection Three Moments of an Explosion by China Miéville. In keeping with the contents of the town's library. The title of our book is Their Eyes Were Watching God – the book searched for but never found.

Why Say it Again? Screenprinted with a clear water-based varnish, the stencils made from dipping glasses and cups into ink to make a mark, as if a glass or cup had been put on a table. The marks, like poison are barely discernible. The handwritten, colour appointments are in watercolour pencil, once the job is done, the colourful notes can be wiped away, leaving only the first 'date' in pencil. Edition of 20, September 2013. 14 x 14 cm. Bound in charcoal grey bookcloth with hand-tooled title and ribbon ties by Rachel James of Bristol Bound Bookbinders. Made for 'Di Carta/Papermade', Italy (Feb 2014) and 'To Have and to Hold – Reed Contemporary Books' at Flow Gallery (Sept 2013), selected for 7th International Artist's Book Triennial Vilnius 2015: "Error" {Mistake}, curator Kestutis Vasiliunas. In collections: Paper di Carta, Italy; Bokartas International Artist's Book Triennial Vilnius and Cardiff Metropolitan University, UK.

Some Small, Good Things, a collaborative zine made by WBN United Artists for World Book Night, 23/04/13. Free download DIY publication.
